FOREWORD

These commuting data were compiled from unpublished 1980 census tabulations on workers by place of work and place of residence. These data represent the most reliable information currently available on commuting patterns. The travel to jobs, both intrastate and across neighboring state lines, by South Carolina residents is shown in these data as well as the travel to jobs in this state by residents of Georgia and North Carolina.

In addition to the data on the commuting of workers, the 1980 census information on the number of persons who worked in the county in which they lived, those who did not report the place of work and the total number of workers residing in the county is included. These data should provide information on the sources of labor supply and demand and be helpful in the planning for industrial development.
